The London School of Management Education (LSME) invites you to take part in the 9th Annual International Research Conference on 'Global Education and the Green Economy' on 18th to 19th August 2022.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

As an internationally renowned conference series, the LSME International Responsible Research and Innovations (RRI) led forum has developed a strong reputation for its inclusive approach towards researchers at all levels and capabilities. By offering a welcoming and accessible platform for sharing ideas drawn from a wide range of cultural, economic, social and organisational perspectives, our conference encourages all participants to take an active role in the research process, both as contributors and consumers. We invite you cordially to take part in this year's event.

Our selected theme for this year's conference is 'Global Education and the Green Economy'.

Building upon the learning accrued globally from recent events such as the global pandemic and growing international tensions around security and sustainability, we wish to provide an opportunity to re-frame many aspects of daily experience through the lens of Responsible Research and Innovations. We believe the education and enablement of future generations of researchers can provide a platform for real change in society. As ever, we seek to encourage contributions from forward-thinking academics and practitioners wishing to share insights and impactful commentary on the many and varied challenges facing communities around the world.

Contributions are especially welcomed from those active in Education and the Green Economy, for any project where socially responsible research and its impact on communities and stakeholders can be clearly demonstrated. We support and encourage participation from seasoned and novice researchers, recognising the value of innovation and experience in generating research insights.

MISSION STATEMENT

Our long-standing alignment with the tenets of Responsible Research and Innovations agenda provides an overarching mission for the conference, namely to:

- Promote social justice, inclusion and equity
- Increase the influence of research on policy and practice in key impact areas
- Increase the commitment of participants in research via active involvement in all stages of an open, principled and inclusive process of investigation and dissemination of findings

These principles are applied equally to all participants, including researchers, academic observers, delegates and the wider communities touched by research projects explored in the conference.

OBJECTIVES OF THE CONFERENCE

- To provide an inclusive platform fostering an active community of researchers collaborating on issues of social significance and societal concern
- To advance the principles and practices of Responsible Research and Innovations (RRI) in support of researchers at all stages of their research journey
- To provide an open and accessible mechanism for sharing creative contributions to the research agenda across a range of subject matter and discipline areas

The conference is hosted by the London School of Management Education (LSME), and delivered by an experienced committee of internationally renowned academics, practitioners and subject matter experts committed to excellence in conducting and sharing socially responsible research outputs and outcomes.

This year we are adopting a 'Hybrid' delivery approach, through which delegates and participants can choose to take part either in person at the LSME Campus, or virtually through our proven Zoom platform.
